

What teachers are saying about CLASS:

"Kids love art and it really helps them learn."

"The instructor was very good with the students and they were engaged the whole time!"

"She (the teaching artist) took the time at each lesson to focus on a key artistic concept(s) i.e. lines, colors, shapes, space."

"I love having someone come in and teach thoroughly and with a purpose."

Bring a teaching artist to your classroom! Connect, support and reinforce your core curriculum with art courses by CLASS.

The Central California Art Association (CCAA) has over

60 years of experience supporting arts in the Central Valley.

The CLASS program brings art to children with engaging hands-on lessons. We lead a wide variety of age appropriate projects using a many different concepts and mediums.

Our teaching artists are skilled at presenting visual arts in a positive and supportive manner. During CLASS courses, students will see and discuss a diverse range of artists from the famous to those in our own community. Many lessons integrate literature and other curriculum topics into the art lesson. The lessons learned while discussing and making art can translate into a lifetime of seeing the world through a lens of creativity, close observation, critical analysis and visual understanding.

How to Schedule Art for Your Classroom

Each art session is approximately one hour and includes a hands-on activity. Courses can be scheduled to fit your available time and budget. Full course descriptions may be requested at the email below, including visual arts standards and connections to literature and core curriculum.

Fees for CLASS courses are $50 per one-hour session. Schools may purchase their own materials or have our teaching artists bring them. Material cost estimates are available on request.

To begin scheduling, contact coordinator, Linda Knoll, at 209-247-2626 or email class.ccaa@gmail.com
